TEACHERS RING TRUE

The teachers and the schools are the Government's best agents for getting the help of all the people in doing the home work necessary for winning the war. Altho the cost of living has advanced 85 per cent and teachers' salaries have been only slightly increased, teachers by economizing and sacrificing are purchasing Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps, besides donating their time and services in promoting Government enterprises in various ways. These sacrifices and even greater than these if necessary will be made by teachers until the war is won.

PITTSBURGH ACCOMMODATIONS

There are only two or three cities in the United States where the hotels alone could care for a large N. E. A. attendance. Pittsburgh is not one of these, but comes next to these in accommodations. It is too much to expect that any live city except one of the very large ones will have a surplus in hotel accommodations to care for many additional thousands of people at any one time. Fortunately many teachers prefer to room outside the hotels. While it might have been possible in Chicago and in New York for the hotels to care for all, thousands of teachers took rooms at private residences as a matter of preference.

Pittsburgh has a few very good hotels and a number of acceptable hotels, but Pittsburgh is short on hotel accommodations when compared with Chicago, New York, or Atlantic City. Pittsburgh, like Boston, is long on available rooms among the best homes of the people. The people who live in the fine residential district near the meeting places are taking pride in placing at the disposal of the local committee rooms in their homes at reasonable rates.

The local committee and the people of the city assure us that our members, however large the attendance, will find satisfactory rooming places. Profiting from the experience of other cities, the local committee is organizing the work in advance, so as to have everything in readiness when teachers arrive. There will be an Information Bureau at each railroad station. The Boy Scouts and the Committees of Young Women will meet every train to escort teachers to rooming places. It is not necessary to reserve rooms in advance, since each Information Bureau will be able to send each one to a good room without delay.

At one time, owing to the extensive use made of Pittsburgh by the government, it looked as if the location of the meeting would need to be changed, but the citizens and local committees soon saw their way thru the difficulties and did not ask to be released from their contract. Changing the location of a meeting is always one of the most unsatisfactory duties of the Executive Committee. Of course we all realize that the work of the government and other agencies aiding in winning the war must have the right of way, and we must expect inconveniences in travel and local difficulties of various kinds. Pittsburgh will be fortunate to avoid all of these difficulties.

Members are advised by the local committee against taking rooms for only one in a room, and especially so in the headquarters hotel. Since hotel accommodations are somewhat limited, hotel space must be conserved as much as possible. All states have headquarters at the William Penn Hotel. It is recommended that these rooms be used as sleeping rooms for representatives of these states as a way of conserving space.

It hardly seems possible to have a more perfect local organization and better local arrangements than we had at New York, Boston, Portland, and some other places, yet Pittsburgh is making an effort to improve upon what has been accomplished at any previous meeting.

THE PITTSBURGH SUMMER SCHOOL

The Universities where meetings have been held have, as a rule, arranged their summer schools to accommodate members of the N. E. A. Pittsburgh University follows this custom and arranges courses to meet the needs of members and fixes the date of opening to follow the closing day of the N. E. A. meetings. The term is six weeks.

One of the Summer Schools of Patriotism, promoted by the National Security League, will be held at the University. Music, studies in education, and studies in the fine and industrial arts receive attention. Special war courses in science and other studies are to be offered.

Inasmuch as summer schools in or near cities which have entertained the N. E. A. summer conventions have invariably had a large increase in enrolment from the N. E. A. membership, the University of Pittsburgh is preparing to accommodate a large number of those who will attend the Pittsburgh convention. Many summer schools West, and further East, plan to extend their accommodations for the sum-

PITTSBURGH MEETING PLACES

Just as Atlantic City has the best hotel facilities of any city in the country, Pittsburgh has by far the best meeting places. Within a square of three or four blocks are more than twenty-five meeting places to care for audiences above 500. Ten or more places accommodate audiences of 1,000 to 3,500. Great care is being taken to arrange for assembly rooms to accommodate all who desire to attend the meetings.

PITTSBURGH SUMMER CLIMATE

Contrary to conditions in most large cities, Pittsburgh is a very comfortable place for summer meetings. It is seldom, indeed, that oppressive heat is suffered for more than a few days in succession and then, as a rule, the conditions are found to be less severe than in case of most other cities of the same latitude.

The following table based on Government reports for the year 1915. (the latest we happen to have at hand) is typical and shows the desirability of Pittsburgh as a place of summer residence:

LESS EXPENSIVE RECEPTIONS

The local committees are not planning on expensive receptions and entertainments for their visitors at the Pittsburgh meeting. They have been instructed by the Executive Committee of the N. E. A. to limit all reception and entertainment expenses to war-time conditions, believing that members will appreciate inexpensive receptions at this time very much more than elaborate and expensive arrangements.

REDUCED RATES

Application has been made for reduced railroad rates for the Pittsburgh meeting. As soon as a definite reply is received the national press service will be requested to give wide publicity to the information. We are expecting concessions but whether our request is granted or not, let us all work for the success of the Pittsburgh meeting.

THE GENERAL PROGRAM AND SHORT ADDRESSES

The general program has been arranged on the theory that the membership will receive a greater inspiration from the speakers on the plan of having four, five, or six short, pointed, purposeful addresses at each session than from a program made up of long addresses. The speakers on the general program for the Pittsburgh meeting are limited to from 15 to 20 minutes, with the exception of three or four, whose addresses will not exceed 30 minutes. These addresses will be condensed for the Volume of Proceedings which will contain, as may be inferred from a glance at the program, a series of notable contributions to education. Arrangements have been made to have the Volume for 1918 printed during the summer and distributed early in the fall.

THE ENLISTMENT OF THE PROFESSION

To the Teachers of America:

The teachers of the United States have been patriotic leaders in every war emergency drive. With their money and their personal services, they have supported and will continue to support generously, the Liberty Loans, and the drives for the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Red Cross, and other agencies whose enlarged public undertakings have been made necessary by the war.

Is it not now time to enlist the profession in an educational emergency drive? The National Education Association believes that the hour for enlistment has struck. Thru its Commission, the Association issues this rallying call for at least 50,000 teachers to enlist at once, in order that war emergency work in education may be directed by an agency representing all elements and interests of the teaching profession.

The present shortage of teachers, the welfare of teachers in service, the education of adult illiterates, immigrant education, health and recreation programs, better rural education, training for all forms of national service, and the necessity to give immediate support to the Committee on Teachers' Salaries, Tenure, and Pensions, were emergency problems put up to the officers of the National Education Association. The Association was obliged to undertake the work at once or to allow it to be done by some other agency and therefore appointed the Joint Commission on the National Emergency in Education. This Commission is now hard at work. The Association relies upon the teachers of the country for the entire financial support of the big program.

This is a professional service-call to every teacher in America! If France enrolls 110,000 teachers in her national association, surely America should enlist 50,000 at once, and many more next year. With such a large body of teachers actively working, the voice of the National Education Association will be effective. Every recruit will share with the teachers of the country the advantages of quick, decisive action. Now is the time to enlist!

Yours for the good of American Education,

C. G. PEARSE
SUSAN M. DORSEY
LOTUS D. COFFMAN
J. M. GWINN
AGNES DOHERTY
THOMAS E. FINEGAN
JOSEPHINE CORLISS PRESTON

Committee on the Enlistment of the Profession.

COMMISSION CONDEMNS TEACHING IN FOREIGN LANGUAGES

Strong for English Language in Schools

The following resolution was unanimously past by the National Education Association Commission on the National Emergency in Education at its session of April 12, 1918, at N. E. A. headquarters, 1400 Massachusetts Avenue:

The National Education Association Commission on the National Emergency in Education and Necessary Readjustment During and After the War, representing thousands of loyal and patriotic teachers, believes the practice of giving instruction to children in the common branches in a foreign tongue to be un-American and unpatriotic, and we believe that all instruction in the common branches for all children in every state in this Union should be in the English language. We therefore recommend that the instruction in the common branches in both private and public schools in all states be given in the English language only, and that every legitimate means, both state and federal, be used to bring about this result.

GERMAN EDUCATORS' CASUALTY LIST

The National Education Association has cancelled all honorary memberships of German educators. In response to a persistent demand from active members of the Association, from members of the Council of National Defense, and from others, the Executive Committee issued an order that all names of honorary members residing in Germany be dropt from the membership roll. The following are among the names of prominent German educators on the honorary list of corresponding members whose memberships have been cancelled:

Dr. Christian Felix Klein, Wilhelm-Weber Strasse 3, Gottingen; Dr. Wilhelm Paszkowski, University of Berlin, Berlin; Dr. Karl Reinhardt, Schillerstrasse 8, Steglitz, Berlin; Dr. Friedrich Gustav Adolph E. L. Schmidt, Cultus Ministerium, Berlin; Dr. Ulrich von Wilamowitz-Moellendorff, Berlin University, Berlin; Dr. Anton H. Appellmann, Herzlake Hannover; Dr. John Mez, Munich.

RIDICULING TEACHERS' WORK NOT TO RECEIVE APPLAUSE

A prominent educator asks whether it is not high time that teachers cut out the practice of giving applause every time the work of teachers and the schools is ridiculed from the platform. While he realizes that the adoption of his suggestion would be very hard on some well known speakers, he feels that so long as teachers take lightly the work and duties of their profession, we can hardly expect the public to seriously consider generous support for the schools or increase salaries for teachers. Is not his point well worth considering?

Non Est Tam Grande Latine Scire Quam Turpe Nescire

—Quintilian

We should have scant capital to trade on were we to throw away the wisdom we have inherited and seek our fortunes with the slender stock we ourselves have accumulated. This, it seems to me, is the real, the prevalent argument for holding every man we can to the intimate study of the ancient Classics—Woodrow Wilson.

I believe that the success of the Continental systems of education and of that in Great Britain establishes the fact that not only are the classical studies important as an essential element in the best liberal education along with mathematics, science, history, economics, philosophy and modern literature, but that the results of the Continental systems of education shows the practical value of such classical studies.—William Howard Taft.

A cultural education must include the Classics. It must not be based only on the Classics. With one or the other, and if possible with both of these two classic languages and literatures (Latin and Greek), every liberally educated man should be familiar.—Theodore Roosevelt.

ROUND TABLE DISCUSSION ON COMMUNITY CENTERS

Henry E. Jackson, Special Agent in Community Organization, Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C., Leader

Suggested Questions for Discussion

Is there any difference between a community council and a community center? If so, what is it?

Should all citizens be mobilized into a civilian army for the practice of citizenship?

If so, how?

What is the best way to Americanize resident aliens, and to Americanize Americans?

What is the best way to transport ideas from Washington, D. C., to Washington, Pa.

What is a Bureau of Community Service? Do states, cities, and counties need one?

Is it possible for a local autonomous community and an autocratic overhead organization to cooperate?

What is the importance and the best method of maintaining morale among citizens?

ROUND TABLE DISCUSSION ON COMMUNITY COUNCILS

Elliott D. Smith, Council of National Defense, Washington, D. C., Leader

Suggested Questions for Discussion

What are the objects and essential elements of a Community Council?

Should a Community Council be organized from above or from the bottom?

What should be the relationship of a Community Council to the Community Organizations of Federal Departments and War Administrations?

What part should an established Community Center play in a Community Council?

How should a person interested in Community Organization proceed during the term of the war?

How can the nationwide development of Community Councils be made of most permanent value?

PURPOSE OF THE CONFERENCE

It is not for entertainment or advertisement, but for the serious discussion of the best plans and policies to be used in Community organization work. It is designed to aid the National Campaign, which the Bureau of Education is assisting to promote, in cooperation with the Council of National Defense, to stimulate the organization of local communities for national service.

The morning session is devoted to a statement of the government's need; the afternoon session seeks to devise the most practical methods of procedure in meeting the need. For this reason it is called an Action Conference. For the same reason two hours are given to open discussion from the floor for a frank consideration of questions, difficulties and constructive suggestions.

In this time of the nation's ordeal, nothing is of more fundamental importance than to mobilize a civilian army into community companies. To discover the best way of doing it is the object of the conference.

NOTES

The conference exhibits a working cooperation among five organizations devoted to community building. As regards speakers on the program; the National Education Association is represented by four; the Bureau of Education by three; the Council of National Defense by three; the National Community Center Association by three; and the Community Organization Board by one. Ten Departments of the Government are represented.

The headquarters of the conference will be the William Penn Hotel. Information about accommodations can be secured from J. W. Crabtree, secretary of the National Education Association, 1400 Mass. Ave., Washington, D. C.

The expenses of this conference are borne by the Community Organization Board, Washington, D. C.

The National Community Center Association continues its Annual Conference July 3. All guests of this conference are invited and urged to attend it.

GENERAL DISCUSSION

THE OFFICIAL PROGRAM

The official program is nearly complete. It will contain a few programs not printed in this BULLETIN. It will contain the names of a few additional speakers on other programs. It will have a tabulation showing at a glance the dates and places of meetings for the various sections. It will contain the new feature which appeared in the Atlantic City program, that of giving an alphabetical index of officers and speakers showing page and program where each name occurs. It will give a list of state headquarters. It will list all dinners, luncheons, and breakfasts for organizations and departments.

This BULLETIN is only for advance information. At Pittsburgh each member will receive the official program which will not only be in completed form but arranged so as to be convenient and valuable.

The assignment of meeting places for the department and other sessions were made on the estimate of a total attendance of 10,000 or more. In order to care for a large attendance and to give a larger choice of programs, two or more important meetings are often scheduled for the same hour. Many of the department programs contain the names of the leading educators of the country.

THE PITTSBURGH BOOKLETS

The envelope which will be handed to each one at the time he receives the N. E. A badge will contain booklets of special information concerning Pittsburgh, her industries, her people, her parks, and her schools. It will contain invitations to entertainments and receptions, invitations for evening boatrides, and special announcements. This same large envelope will contain pictures and the official program. All that the envelope contains will be well worth keeping.

While several members of the President's Cabinet are counting on attending the Pittsburgh meeting, we all realize that a world crisis is on and that we must be ready to excuse the absence of any one who is detained in Washington because of war emergencies. The President has had a strong desire to attend this meeting, but the national situation is so grave and the need of the President at his office every hour of the day is so great that we can hardly hope for his presence at this meeting.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

Committee on Organization

Chairman Owen will arrange for a meeting of the Committee on Organization and will notify each member of the meeting. All notices for meetings and conferences will appear in the official program.

Baggage

It is suggested that members attending the Pittsburgh Convention take with them as small an amount of baggage as possible, owing to the congested condition of the railroads. They will also find it very much to their convenience not to have much baggage when making transfers since it is practically impossible to get the services of porters at the hotels and stations enroute.

Exhibit and Consultation Room on Character Education, Schenley High School

All who have done advanced work in character education are invited to make an exhibit of their plans and material. Send exhibit to National Institution for Moral Instruction, 3730 McKinley Street, District of Columbia, or to Dean C. B. Connelley, Chairman of Exhibit Committee, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pa. The fifty-two children's codes of morality which resulted from the national $5,000 morality codes competition will be shown. Other important information, pamphlets, articles, publications, etc., will be on exhibit. Professor H. L. Latham will be in attendance. Mr. Milton Fairchild will have charge of the exhibit which will be open day and evening during the entire meeting.

Bring Receipts

Members who have paid dues for the year 1918-19 are requested to bring receipts with them. Show the receipt and get badges, program, guides, etc. It is imperative for associate members to have receipts with them because the office cannot have printed alphabetical list of advance and other associate memberships.

Important notes about Pittsburgh meeting are scattered through this BULLETIN.
