

equipment the school has proceeded to train a limited number of teachers to care for all the needs of children from one to seven years of age. The methods are distinctive and clear.

MONCKTON, CHARLES ARTHUR WHITMORE. Taming New Guinea. N. Y., Lane, 1921. 337 p. illus. map. $5.

An interesting record of a rugged life in the South Seas in which adventures with crocodiles, pearl divers, and savage tribes were everyday occurrences. Also gives some idea of the problems of the British magistrate amongst strange civilizations.

POPE, AMY ELIZABETH. A textbook of simple nursing procedure for use in high schools. N. Y., Putnam, 1921. 360 p. illus. $2.50.

The untrained emergency nurse is here given a text remarkably clear on the handling of bed patients, first aid, the cure of children, and the use of drugs. The simply written text is clarified by numerous photographs and diagrams. Glossary and index. Supersedes the author's earlier volume Home care of the sick (Booklist, 3:170, O 07).

RICH, MABEL IRENE. A study of the types of literature (Century studies in literature for high schools). N. Y., Century, 1921. 540 p. illus. $2.

A textbook for fourth year high-school students. It steers between the ordinary history of literature and the minute analysis of masterpieces. The problem of discovering the characteristics of a type of literature is used as the approach. The selections are chosen for their service in forming good taste, enlarging experience, and inspiring ideals. English and American classic and contemporary authors are represented. There are classroom exercises, reading lists, and a period chart.

SCHWARTZ, ISIDORE ADOLPHE. Commercial French. N. Y., Harcourt, 1920. 330 p. $1.60.

A business letter in French is used as the basis of each lesson, which includes exercises in grammar, idioms and translation. Part two is made up of selections on commercial subjects. Gives also information on the form and conventionalities of French letters, lists of commercial terms, abbreviations, and tables of French money and weights. Presupposes a knowledge of French equivalent to about two years of high-school work.

SEDGWICK, HENRY DWIGHT. Marcus Aurelius. New Haven, Yale Univ., 1921. 309 p. $2.75.

Thoughtful readers who admire the great Roman empire, its men, and philosophy will find much pleasure in this little volume and in the long bibliography for further reference. The book is a short biography of Marcus Aurelius and his times, the social and political thought of the man, and especially his religion and relation to the Christians.

VAN DOREN, CARL CLINTON. The American novel. N. Y., Macmillan, 1921. 295 p. $2.

"A record of the national imagination as exhibited in the progress of native fiction."

As such it calls to one's attention curious, forgotten novels as well as those well-known, which describe a movement in American thought. The book is an enlargement of the author's contribution to the Cambridge history of American literature. A very interesting historical and literary study. Bibliographical notes and index.

ZIMAND, SAVEL. Modern social movements (Debaters' handbook series). N. Y., Wilson, 1921. 260 p. $1.25.

Covers Trade unionism—The cooperative movement—Industrial democracy—The single tax—Socialism—Guild socialism—Syndicalism—Bolshevism—Anarchism. The summaries are brief, impersonal, and to the point. Many of the titles are annotated.
