NEW AND FORTHCOMING BOOKS

A Latin Grammar

For Schools and Colleges. By GEORGE M. LANE, Ph.D., LL.D., Professor Emeritus of Latin in Harvard University, Crown Svo. (Nearly Ready.)

Professor Lane was engaged for many years upon the preparation of the Latin Grammar about to be published, and while he did not complete it in all its details, the manuscript was practically finished before his death. The peculiar merits of the work are comprehensiveness, precision of statement, accuracy in details, perfect clearness, combined with the utmost condensation, and a wealth and aptness of illustration unrivalled by any predecessor.

Harper's Scientific Memoirs

Memoirs by Gay-Lussac, Joule, and Joule and Thomson on the Free Expansion of Gases. Edited by JOSEPH S. AMES, Ph.D., Professor of Physics, Johns Hopkins University. (Nearly Ready.)

Fraunhofer's Papers on Prismatic and Diffraction Spectra. Edited by JOSEPH S. AMES, Ph.D. In press.

These are the first two volumes of a series of translation and reprints of various scientific memoirs which are readily accessible to the general student. The papers to be included will be selected from those which are most important in the history of science, or which have important bearing upon the present state of science. They will embrace articles from the fields of Physics, Astronomy, Chemistry, and probably other sciences.

Elements of Literary Criticism

By CHARLES F. JOHNSON, Professor of English Literature in Trinity College, Hartford; author of "English Words." 16mo, Cloth 80 cents; by mail, 88 cents.

"Johnson's 'Elements of Literary Criticism' is more than a good book; it is an extremely good one. His insight is keen, his statement lucid, his examples apt, his critical scheme at once simple and profound."—JAMES R. TRUAX, Professor of English Literature, Union University.

Paradise Lost: Its Structure and Meaning

The poem, with Copious Notes by JOHN A. HINES, Professor of English, Pennsylvania College. Post Svo, Cloth, $1.20; by mail $1.32.

This edition omits the usual grammatical and philological comment, as well as citations from authors who could not have contributed to the form or substance of the poem. "The Structure and Meaning" are chiefly considered, and the origin of the plan as a whole and of many of the constituent scenes is traced.

Latin Literature of the Empire.

In Selections. Edited, with Revised Texts and Brief Introductions, by ALFRED GUDEMAN, Associate Professor of Classical Philology, University of Pennsylvania. Post svo. In Two Volumes. Vol. I., PROSE, Nearly Ready; Vol. II., POETRY, In Press.

The selections have been made with a primary view to their æsthetic interest and intrinsic value, and owing to their length and continuity, are calculated to give an adequate conception of the genius of the respective authors.

Phillips and Strong's Trigonometry

Elements of Plane and Spherical Trigonometry.

By ANDREW W. PHILLIPS, Professor in Yale University, and WENDELL M. STRONG, Tutor in Yale University. (Nearly Ready.)

Phillips and Fisher's Geometry, immediately upon its publication, took leading rank among text-books of the science. Phillips and Strong's Trigonometry, it is believed, will be received with equal favor. The qualities which distinguish the "Geometry"—mathematical soundness, lucidity and helpfulness—will commend the "Trigonometry" to mathematical teachers.

Introductory Course in Mechanical Drawing.

By JOHN C. TRACY, C. E., Instructor in the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University; with Chapter on Perspective by E. H. LOCKWOOD, M. E. With Illustrations, including Reproductions of Photographs of Models. Oblong 4to, Cloth, $1.80; by mail, $2.00.

"It is the best, most common-sense treatise of the many which I have seen, and corresponds more closely with my experience in office and school work than any other."—RALPH W. ALLEN, Instructor in Mechanical Drawing and Design, Boys' High School, Brooklyn.

A Manual of Experiments in Physics.

Laboratory Instruction for College Classes, By JOSEPH S. AMES, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Physics in Johns Hopkins University author of "Theory of Physics," and WILLIAM J. A. BLISS, Associate in Physics in Johns Hopkins University. Svo. Cloth, $1.80; by mail, $1.95.

"It is written with that clearness and precision which are characteristic of its authors. I am confident that the book will be of great service to teachers and students in the physical laboratory."—HARRY C. JONES, Ph.D., Instructor in Physical Chemistry, Johns Hopkins University.

Educational Catalogue and Special Terms for Introduction will be sent to any Teacher on Application.

CHICAGO AND NEW YORK

Welcome! N. E. A.

THE citizens of Washington, appreciating the choice of this city for the convention of the National Educational Association, desire to express their hearty sympathy with your organization, and to assure you that no effort will be spared to render your stay in the National Capital pleasant and your meeting successful. That Washington is the center to which organized bodies of a national character tend, is indicated by the fact that already two score of them hold their annual sessions under the shadow of the dome of the Capitol. Our citizens esteem it a boon to greet the teachers of the country and their guests, to welcome a society whose members have so much to do in determining the character of the people and so shaping the destinies of the nation.

It is peculiarly fitting that this great Association of teachers, from whom the American youth receive instructions, should assemble in Washington. Probably in no other way can information as to the nature of our Government and its practical operations be so easily diffused among the youth of the land, or a clear conception of the character of our institutions be so readily gained.

ADVANTAGES FROM AN EDUCATIONAL STANDPOINT.

The advantages of Washington from an educational standpoint are at once apparent.

As the capital and home of the nation, the city is naturally the object of peculiar pride and interest to all patriotic Americans. Here are located the three co-ordinate branches of our Government, the Executive, the Houses of Congress, and the Supreme Court of the United States. Here are the departments in which the work of the Government is carried on, and within which its practical operation can be studied at first hand. And here, most interesting of all to teachers, is the magnificent new Library of Congress—a veritable palace of art—with its splendid treasure of learning. In the various public buildings, moreover, are to be found many valuable libraries of a special character, and collections and exhibits of interest and importance. Much pleasure and profit will be found also in visiting the Smithsonian Institution, the National Museum, the Corcoran Art Gallery and the Universities and schools which serve to bring all these public resources into the line of direct educational work.

The natural attractions of Washington, which has been aptly styled the "Paris of America," will be thoroughly appreciated by those who attend the convention—the magnificent avenues and broad streets paved with asphalt and abundantly shaded; the splendid system of public parks, comprising in area nearly five thousand acres; the great public buildings; the various monuments; the zoological and botanical gardens; the picturesque beauty of the suburbs and of the surrounding country, especially along the valleys of the historic Potomac; and such objects of National interest as the United States Soldiers' Home, Arlington, Rock Creek Park, Zoological Park and Mount Vernon.

THE CAPITOL.

THE Capitol of the United States is situated on Capitol Hill, one and one-third miles from the White House and half a mile from the Pennsylvania Railroad Station. The building is open from 9:00 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. daily except Sundays and holidays. Congress goes into session during its term at twelve o'clock noon. Visitors are allowed on the floor of the Senate and House of Representatives until 11.45 a. m. during the days on which Congress meets; after that hour they are admitted to the galleries only.

The central portion of the building is constructed of Virginia sandstone, painted white; the Senate and House wings are of Massachusetts marble. The columns of all porticoes are monoliths. The entire length of the Capitol is seven hundred and fifty-one feet and four inches; width, three hundred and fifty feet; area, over three and one-half acres.

The corner-stone of the main building was laid by President Washington on September 18, 1793. The corner-stone of the extensions was laid by President Fillmore on July 4, 1851, Daniel Webster being the orator. Until the completion of the extensions the Senate occupied the present Supreme Court Room, and the House of Representative the present National Statuary Hall; the extensions were first occupied by Congress on January 4, 1859.

The dome of the Capitol, surmounted by the statue of Freedom, towers nearly three hundred feet above the esplanade. It may be ascended by a winding stairway. In the central building are the Rotunda, the Supreme Court Room, and the Statuary Hall. The Senate occupies the north wing and the House of Representatives the south wing.

The Brumidi fresco on the Rotunda canopy is one of the greatest works of art in America. In the centre is the Apotheosis of Washington. On his right sits Freedom; on his left, Victory; about him float aerial figures representing the original thirteen States. Around this centre piece are groups representing the Fall of Tyranny, Agriculture, Mechanics, Commerce, Marine, Arts, and Sciences. At the east entrance to the Rotunda are the famous Rogers bronze doors, illustrating scenes in the career of Columbus.

The National Statuary Hall, the old Hall of Representatives, the scene of the debates by Webster, Clay, and Calhoun, is set apart for the reception of two statues from each State, and now contains the figures of nearly all the prominent men in the nation's history.

THE CAPITOL.

EXECUTIVE MANSION.

The "White House," the official home of the President of the United States, is situated on Pennsylvania Avenue at Sixteenth Street. The East Room or State Parlor is open to visitors from 10:00 a. m. to 2:00 p. m. daily except Sundays and holidays. Ordinarily the President receives visitors in the East Room at 3:00 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. These receptions are subject to change, however, at the will of the President.

The building is constructed of Virginia freestone and is one hundred and seventy feet long and eighty-six feet in depth. It consists of a rustic basement, two stories and an attic, the whole surmounted by an ornamental balustrade. The White House was the first public building erected at the new seat of Government. The corner stone was laid by Washington, October 13, 1792. John Adams was its first occupant in 1800. In 1814 it was burned by the British, and upon its restoration the stone was painted white to obliterate the marks of the fire.

The East Room is usually the only one shown to visitors. From the grand-central corridor, however, which extends clear through to the conservatory, other rooms lead off, sumptuously furnished, and taking their names from the predominant color of their decorations. The Green Room is now used principally for a music room. The Blue Room is also used by the President as a reception room. It was in this room that the Cleveland marriage took place in June, 1886. The Red Room is used as the family sitting room, and also for receptions by the ladies of the President's household. Beyond the Red Room is the State Dining Room, where the state dinners are given to the Cabinet, the Justices of the Supreme Court, and the Diplomatic Corps. The President's Room on the second floor is reached by a stairway which ascends from the hall between the vestibule and the East Room. Opening off from the President's Room is the Cabinet Room. All of these rooms are luxurious in their furnishings and contain many valuable paintings of former Presidents and noted personages.

THE TREASURY.

The Treasury of the United States is situated on Pennsylvania avenue at Fifteenth street. It is open to visitors from 9.00 a. m. to 2.00 p. m. daily, except Sundays and holidays; but the tour of the building can be made only between 11.00 a. m. and 12.00 noon and 1.00 and 2.00 p. m.

This building is constructed of sandstone and granite, and has a total length of four hundred and fifty feet and a width of two hundred and fifty feet. Its site was chosen by President Jackson, who, becoming impatient at the long delay, stuck his cane into the ground one morning and ordered, "Build it here." This is the bank of the nation, and in it are to be seen the Cash Room, Division of Issue, the Redemption Division, the bond and gold and silver vaults, and the Secret Service Museum.

BUREAU OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING.

This important branch of the Treasury Department is located in a handsome brick building in the Mall, between Fourteenth and B Streets quite near the Washington Monument. It is here that all the national paper currency, Government bonds, stamps, passports, etc., are engraved and printed. On the ground floor is a museum containing specimens of the old fractional currency known as "shinplasters," series of all the notes printed, besides many specimens of counterfeit notes and the tools and machinery used in their manufacture. The building is open to visitors between 9:00 a. m. and 12:00 noon and 12:30 and 2:30 p. m. and upon application to the officer at the door a competent guide will be furnished to show the visitors through the building and explain the various processes and methods used in the national bank notes.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION.

The Smithsonian Institution stands in a large park in the Mall, between Seventh and Twelfth Streets, and is open to visitors daily, except Sunday, between 9:00 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. In the museum may be found many fine specimens of stuffed birds and animals of all kinds, besides thousands of unique and interesting curious gathered from all parts of the world.

In the park surrounding the Institution may be seen one of the finest sylvan collections in this country, there being in all nearly two hundred varieties of trees.

STATE, WAR AND NAVY BUILDING.

STATE, WAR AND NAVY.

The State, War, and Navy Building is situated west of the White House, on Pennsylvania Avenue. It is open to visitors from 9.00 a. m. to 2.00 p. m. daily, except Sundays and holidays. It is constructed of granite, four stories high, with a frontage of three hundred and forty-two feet on Pennsylvania Avenue and a depth of five hundred and sixty-five feet, and is regarded as one of the most magnificent office buildings in the world. It has five hundred rooms and two miles of marble halls. The War Department occupies the west wing, the Navy Department the east wing, and the State Department the south. The main entrance is on Pennsylvania Avenue.

The offices of the Secretaries are on the second floor, and are accessible only for business, but the richly-furnished anterooms may be inspected.

Many interesting relics may be seen in the State Library, such as Washington's sword and Franklin's staff, a fac simile of the Declaration of Independence, the Great Seal of the United States, and numerous medals and manuscripts.

THE NATIONAL MUSEUM.

Closely adjoining the Smithsonian Institution is the National Museum the most perfect building for the purpose in existence. Its architecture is Romanesque, and the building is adorned with many fine groups of statuary, chief among which is the group representing Columbia as protectress of Science and Industry. Within the walls of this great building are many curios of interest to both old and young. The United States Centennial exhibit has been placed here, besides the relics of America's greatest generals, Washington and Grant. The ethnological, metallurgical, and geological exhibition is especially large and complete. Chief among the curios and exhibits in point of interest are groups portraying the hardships incident to explorations in the extreme North, gold mining, fishing, and life on the plains. In this building is the original John Bull locomotive, which attracted so much interest at the World's Fair, being loaned by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

This building is open daily except Sunday between 9:00 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

THE NEW CONGRESSIONAL LIBRARY.

This magnificent building is situated just east of the Capitol at Pennsylvania Avenue and B Street. It is open to the public from 9:00 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. week-days. The material used in its construction is the purest white New Hampshire granite. The order of architecture is the Italian Renaissance. The building covers about three and one-half acres, and is the most elaborately adorned edifice in this country. In its frescoes and friezes, its statuary and paintings, its bronzes and bas reliefs, it bears comparison with any of the public buildings of the world. It has forty-three miles of shelving, and its present capacity of one million eight hundred thousand volumes could easily be increased to four million five hundred thousand volumes. The largest library in the world, outside of this building, that of France, contains only two million two hundred and fifty thousand volumes.

THE WASHINGTON NATIONAL MONUMENT.

DOUBTLESS one of the most interesting objects at the National Capital is the Monument. This greatest of memorial shafts, rising to a height of five hundred and fifty-five feet, is situated in Washington Park, near Fourteenth Street, and is open to visitors daily from 9.00 a. m. to 4.30 p. m. The foundations of the Monument were laid in 1848, and it was not until 1885 that the completed structure was open to the public. The lower part of this imposing edifice is built of New England granite, faced with crystal marble. In the construction of the upper part of the Monument white marble exclusively is used.

The top is reached by an elevator running every half hour, or by a flight of nine hundred steps. The view from the top, embracing Washington and its environments, the winding Potomac, and the heights of Virginia, is most magnificent. The total cost of the Monument was $1,300,000.

THE NEW CORCORAN GALLERY OF ART.

The new Corcoran Art Gallery, recently completed, is situated on Seventeenth Street, occupying the entire square between New York Avenue and E Street, N.W. Visitors are admitted free on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturdays, from 9:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m., and on Sundays from 1:30 to 5:00 p. m. On other days an admission fee of twenty-five cents is charged. The building is constructed of Georgia white marble, in the Neo-Grec style of architecture. The collection of paintings, sculpture, and bronzes is very large, embracing works of the most eminent artists of the world, mostly contemporaneous.

THE PATENT OFFICE.

The building of the Department of the Interior, in which the Patent Office is located, is a massive structure of freestone, marble and granite in the Doric style, and is bounded by Seventh and Ninth, and F and G Streets, covering two large squares. Visitors are admitted to the building and Museum of Models from 9.00 a. m. to 2.00 p. m. The Museum of Models, the chief point of interest to visitors, is located on the second floor. Here may be seen models of all the inventions patented by American genius. Among the two hundred thousand or more models is the original printing-press of Benjamin Franklin. A part of the models are on exhibition in the Union Building, on G Street, between Sixth and Seventh Streets.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

The Agricultural Buildings are situated, in the Mall, a short distance west of the Smithsonian Institution. They are open to visitors from 9.00 a. m. to 4.00 p. m. In the Museum may be seen a complete exhibition of the agricultural, horticultural, pomological, and botanical productions of the country. The building also contains an elaborate library, besides a large, miscellaneous collection of trees, shrubs, and plants.

THE WEATHER BUREAU.

The interesting little building occupied by the Weather Bureau is situated at the corner of M and Twenty-second Streets. Visitors are admitted between the hours of 9:00 a. m. and 2:00 p. m. Here are kept in active use instruments for measuring the velocity of the wind, delicate barometers, and curiously-devised instruments for determining the volume of rainfall.

THE PENSION OFFICE.

The Pension building is situated in the northern part of Judiciary Square, on G Street, between Fourth and Fifth streets, N.W. Visitors are admitted between 9.00 a. m. and 4.00 a. m. It is an immense fire-proof structure, built of brick and ornamented with a border of terra cotta bas relief. Here is kept the record of the one million two hundred thousand pension applicants. This building is the largest of its kind in the world, over fifteen million bricks being used in its construction. The estimated cost was $1,000,000.

THE LINCOLN MUSEUM.

In a small three-story house at 516 Tenth Street, N. W., may be seen the room in which President Lincoln died on the morning of April 15, 1865. The building is open daily to visitors, and a small fee is charged for admission. In this house is a large collection of Lincoln relics, among which are over two hundred portraits. Directly opposite this building is the site of Ford's Theatre, in a box of which Lincoln received his death wound.

THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

On F Street and directly opposite the Patent Office is the huge granite structure in which the business of the Post Office Department is transacted. It is open to visitors between the hours of 9:00 a. m. and 2:00 p. m. Probably the most interesting sight to the visitor is the Dead Letter Office and its museum stocked with all sorts of curious objects taken from the unclaimed letters, which are received at this department in numbers varying from fifteen to twenty thousand daily.

THE GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.

This building is located at North Capitol and H Streets, N. E., and visitors are admitted from 10:00 until 11:30 a. m., and from 1:00 to 3:00 p. m. It is an uninteresting building to one who is not engaged in the same art, and the ordinary visitor prefers to spend his time in some of the other buildings.

It is said to be the largest printing establishment in the world, and in order to successfully handle the enormous amount of printing required by the Government the building has been divided into four parts.

The first floor contains the press and reading rooms, the second the composing rooms and offices, the third floor the binding department, while on the fourth floor all of the folding is done.

THE NEW NAVAL OBSERVATORY.

The new Naval Observatory is situated on Georgetown Heights, in West Washington. Visitors are admitted freely by day, but night visitors are restricted to Tuesdays and Thursdays, when admission may be gained by permit from the Superintendent. On these nights the Observer is present to give visitors an opportunity to view the heavens through the large telescope. The meridian of Washington passes through the center of the dome of this building, and the large time ball is dropped from the mast every day at 12.00 m. and instantly noontime is transmitted by telegraph to all parts of the United States. One of the largest telescopes in the world, a twenty-inch equatorial, costing $56,000, is located here.

SOLDIERS' HOME.

The Soldiers' Home is situated on a hill three miles east of the Capitol, and may be reached via the Seventh Street cars. It is open to visitors from 9:00 a. m. until sunset, daily except Sundays.

The grounds cover some five hundred acres of diversified lawn, slope, and ravine. It is an institution for the benefit of soldiers who have been honorably discharged from the regular army after twenty years' service, or who have been disabled by wounds or disease.

It was at this picturesque spot that President Arthur spent his summer vacations.

MT. VERNON.

This historic spot, the home of General Washington, is situated on the south bank of the Potomac, and is reached via the Washington, Alexandria & Mount Vernon Railway Company's electric line from 13½ Street and Pennsylvania Avenue. In the mansion the rooms will be found just as they were in the time when the "Father of his Country" lived at this beautiful spot.

The old family vault, in which Washington's body lay until 1837, may be seen in the beautifully-wooded park surrounding the house. The body now rests in the handsome marble sarcophagus.

ARLINGTON.

The Arlington National Cemetery is situated on the Virginia side of the Potomac, on a hill overlooking the Capital. It is reached by the cars of the Washington, Alexandria & Mount Vernon Railway, starting from 13½ Street and Pennsylvania Avenue. The cemetery is open daily, including Sundays, from sunrise to sunset.

INTERIOR NEW CONGRESSIONAL LIBRARY

At Arlington rest sixteen thousand soldiers who gave up their lives in the War of the Rebellion. It is historic ground. The mansion, one of the old landmarks, was built in the early part of the century by a foster son of Washington. On the 22d of April, 1861, Robert E. Lee went out from this, his home, to fight for the Confederacy.

The view from Arlington Heights is most beautiful. Below flows the peaceful Potomac; on the farther side, with its towering monument, its parks, and its imposing buildings, lies the Capital of the Nation; beyond rise the encircling hills, rolling gently away to the dim, distant horizon.

National Educational Association.

Thirty-seventh Annual Meeting at Washington, D. C.
July 7-12, 1898.

A Brief History.

The National Educational Association was organized at Philadelphia in 1857, under the name of the National Teachers' Association, by leading teachers from various sections of the country. James L. Enos was chairman of the first meeting, William E. Sheldon its first Secretary, and A. J. Rickoff its first Treasurer.

The name was changed in 1870 to National Educational Association.

The Association has held thirty-six meetings as follows: Two at Philadelphia, 1857, 1879; one at Cincinnati, 1858; Washington, 1859; Buffalo, 1860; Chicago, 1863, 1887; Ogdensburg, 1864; Harrisburg, 1865; Indianapolis, 1866; Nashville, 1868, 1889; Trenton, 1869; Cleveland, 1870; St. Louis, 1871; Boston, 1872; Elmira, 1873; Detroit, 1874; Minneapolis, 1875; Baltimore, 1876; Louisville, 1877; Chautauqua, 1880; Atlanta, 1881; four at Saratoga, 1882, 1883, 1885, 1892; Madison, 1884; Topeka, 1886; San Francisco, 1888; St. Paul, 1890; Toronto, 1891; with International Congresses of Education, Chicago, 1893; Asbury Park, 1894; Denver, 1895; Buffalo, 1896; Milwaukee, 1897. There were no meetings in 1861, 1862, 1867, 1878.

Its presidents have been Zalmon Richards, A. J. Rickoff, J. W. Bulkley, John D. Philbrick, W. H. Wells, S. S. Greene, J. P. Wickersham, J. M. Gregory, L. Van Bokkelen, Daniel B. Hagar, J. L. Pickard, E. E. White, B. G. Northrop, S. H. White, William T. Harris, William F. Phelps, M. A. Newell, John Hancock, J. Ormond Wilson, James H. Smart, G. J. Orr, E. T. Tappan, Thomas W. Bicknell, F. Louis Soldan, N. A. Calkins, W. E. Sheldon, Aaron Gove, A. P. Marble, James H. Canfield, W. R. Garret, E. H. Cook, Albert G. Lane, Nicholas Murray Butler, Newton C. Dougherty, Charles R. Skinner.

It was incorporated February 24, 1886, and has a permanent fund of sixty thousand dollars.

ITS OBJECT.—“To elevate the character and advance the interests of the profession of teaching, and to promote the cause of popular education in the United States.”

MEMBERSHIP.—There shall be three classes of members, namely, active, associate, and corresponding.

Teachers and all who are actively associated with the management of educational institutions, including libraries and periodicals, may become active members. All others who pay an annual membership fee of two dollars may become associate members. Eminent educators not residing in America may be elected by the Directory to be corresponding members. The number of corresponding members shall at no time exceed fifty.

Any person eligible may become an active member upon application indorsed by two active members, and the payment of an enrollment fee of two dollars and the annual dues for the current year.

All active members must pay annual dues of two dollars, and will be entitled to the volume of proceedings without "coupon" or other conditions. If the annual dues are not paid within the fiscal year, membership will lapse, and may be restored only on payment of the enrollment fee of two dollars and the annual dues for the current year. All life members and life directors shall be denominated active members, and shall enjoy all the powers and privileges of such members without the payment of annual dues.

Associate members may receive the volume of proceedings in accordance with the usual "coupon" conditions, as printed on the membership certificate.

Corresponding members will be entitled to the volume of proceedings without the payment of fees or other conditions.

The names of active and corresponding members only will be printed in the volume of proceedings, with their respective educational titles, offices, and addresses, the list to be revised annually by the Secretary of the Association.

The Remington Typewriter people, as in former years, will furnish, exclusively and gratuitously, all typewriter services needed by the National Executive Committee at their headquarters in the Banquet Room of the Arlington Hotel; and, in the adjoining parlors, similar service will be offered to the members of the N. E. A. for correspondence. Like service will be provided also at the headquarters of the Treasurer in Willard Hall.

Sanders & Stayman will furnish, gratuitously, the use of musical instruments needed during the Convention.

The annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the N. E. A. will be held in the Assembly Hall of the Cosmos Club, opposite the Arlington Hotel, at 3 o'clock p. m., Thursday, July 7th.

National Geographic Society.

1. In compliment to the National Educational Association, a field meeting of the National Geographic Society will be held at Cabin John Bridge, the great stone arch, through which flows the water supply of Washington, on Saturday afternoon, July 9th, at 3 o'clock p. m. Addresses will be delivered on (1) the work of streams in geographic development, (2) the effect of climate in geographic development, (3) time as a factor in geographic development, and (4) geographic teaching in common schools. The place of meeting may be reached either by the Great Falls Electric Railway, by the Chevy Chase and Glen Echo Railways, or by bicycle or carriage over the Conduit road. Cars will leave Washington terminus of the Great Falls railway, on High street, Georgetown (terminus Metropolitan and Capital Traction Company lines) at 1:00, 1:20 and 1:40 p. m.; fare, four car tickets for the round trip, six tickets for 25c. Refreshments may be obtained at the place of meeting. The meeting will be open to members of the Society and of the National Educational Association.

2. It is anticipated that a meeting of the Society will be held in the National Theatre on Saturday evening, July 9th, at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be devoted to a symposium on geographic teaching, in which the leading geographers and educators of the country will participate. It will be open to members of the Society and the Association.

3. A geographic exhibit illustrating the physiography, geology, ethnology, climate and industries of the United States will be prepared and maintained at the Central High School, corner Seventh and O Streets, N.W., July 7 to 12, inclusive. The exhibit will be explained by custodians, as well as by a special number of the National Geographic Magazine, which will be free to visitors.

The above arrangements are in the hands of a committee, appointed by the National Geographic Society, of which W. B. Powell, Superintendent of Schools, Washington, D. C., is chairman.

THURSDAY, JULY 7—AFTERNOON SESSION, 2:30 O'CLOCK.

Discussion of Report on Rural Schools concluded—

IV. Instruction and Discipline in Rural Schools.
Theses:

1. The advantages arising from grading small country schools are more than counterbalanced by the disadvantages of teaching together pupils widely separated in ability and acquirements.

2. Whenever practicable, the pupils of small outlying districts should be transported at public expense to the town center; this plan may embrace all the pupils of the school, or only the older and more advanced.

3. With the limitations suggested in the Report the monitorial system can be employed to advantage in rural schools.

4. Where rural schools are maintained, written examinations for the older pupils should be held at stated times in town centers by the county superintendent or other competent officer, adequate records of the results of the examination being preserved for future reference.

5. For those who have left school, "school extension" in the form of recommended home-reading under the care of the teacher of the district should be organized and directed by the town or county superintendent.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S

STEEL PENS.

The Standard Pens of the World.

Highest Awards, Paris, 1889, Chicago, 1893.

It is only by the use of the best pens that satisfactory results can be had, therefore teachers and all persons preparing to teach are interested in using and recommending Gillott's Pens.

For Primary Pupils: Nos. 404, 351, and 1047 (Multiscript).

For Grammar Grades: Nos. 604 E. F., 303, 404 and 1047 (Multiscript).

For Young Men in High Schools: No. 601 E. F. (an enlarged edition of No. 604 E. F.).

FOR VERTICAL WRITING: Nos. 1045 (Verticalar), 1046 (Vertigraph), 1047 (Multiscript).

The great durability of Gillott's Pens, and the rapid progress they induce, make them the least expensive pens on the market.

When from any cause dealers are unable to supply, prompt response will be made to communications addressed to Choice Literature.

(5 Books.)

By Prof. Sherman Williams.
Supt. of Schools, Glens Falls, N. Y.

Ready June 25th.

This Series is intended to create and foster a taste for good reading.

To teach a child to read and not to teach him what to read, is to put into his hands a dangerous weapon.

The Regular Series of Readers are designed primarily to teach children how to read; but, besides this, much practice in reading is required, and every teacher is at a loss as to what books to place in the hands of the children for practice reading. The result is that much promiscuous matter, without any special system, is thus used for reading.

Professor Williams has given much thought to this question of systematic reading, and how much it is possible to accomplish in the ordinary school course, and what is the best plan to create a taste for good reading, as well as to give some familiarity with the best authors.

There are five books in this Series:

- ONE FOR PRIMARY GRADES,
- TWO FOR INTERMEDIATE GRADES,
- TWO FOR GRAMMAR GRADES.

The series will contain over 1,400 12mo pages of choice reading matter, each volume bound in full cloth. The best English and American authors will be fully represented.

The price for the full Series is $1.75.

This is over eight pages of choice reading matter for one cent.

Sample sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price.

IN PRESS:

A Sight Reader.

To be used for practice, after completing the First Reader of any Regular Series.

It is a genuine and carefully graded Sight Reader for Primary Grades.

Quality Rather Than Quantity.

Pres. Eliot of Harvard, says: "The International is a wonderfully compact storehouse of accurate information."

The International is Scientific and Practical.

Words are easily found. Pronunciation is easily ascertained. Meanings are easily learned. The growth of words is easily traced, and excellence of quality rather than superfluity of quantity characterizes its every department.

J. M. Greenwood, President National Educational Association, says: "While having free access to all the leading modern dictionaries of the English language, I use the International ten times more than all the others. It is still the standard in the United States with no competitor in sight."

Specimen pages and testimonials from eminent persons and publications sent on application.

A NOTABLE ADOPTION..

ST. LOUIS, MO., has a Board of Education representing the highest grade of citizenship, and a Superintendent of Schools in full sympathy with its purpose to maintain in the schools a standard of efficiency second to no other. The recent adoption by this Board, on the recommendation of the Superintendent, of Reed's Word Lessons, Reed's Introductory Language Work and Reed & Kellogg's Grammar for exclusive use in the St. Louis schools places the city in line with the best educational sentiment and practice of the country with respect to language teaching, and affords another convincing evidence of the fact that "Reed & Kellogg's Language Series has no formidable rival." These books are published by Maynard, Merrill & Co., 29, 31 and 33 East Nineteenth Street, New York.

THE PACKARD PUBLICATIONS.

JUST PUBLISHED:

Packard's Bank Bookkeeping.

A practical, clean-cut presentation of banking as practiced to-day, showing the best methods and forms of record, and containing a large amount of incidental information.

Other Commercial Text-books now offered and ready for use are:

THE PACKARD METHOD OF TEACHING BOOKKEEPING, a broad-paged book of 140 pages, This book is, in itself, a complete treatise on bookkeeping, and is supplemented by PROGRESSIVE BUSINESS PRACTICE TESTS that leave nothing to be desired in the way of school practice. The plan is ideal, and is so pronounced by all intelligent teachers who have examined it.

THE NEW PACKARD ARITHMETIC, which is already a standard book in commercial schools, and covers all the requisites of a text-book of the first order.

LESSONS IN MUNSON PHONOGRAPHY which have been adopted in most of the Short-hand Schools teaching this system.

GENL. FRANCIS A. WALKER, Superintendent of the Ninth and of the Tenth Census, said: "The presence and skillful work of the graduates of this institution distinctly raise the average of the quality and speed of the work of an office. On behalf of the public service I would not hesitate to accept an applicant without further proof of efficiency than a simple certificate of his graduation from Spencerian Business College."

HON. ARTHUR MACARTHUR, of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, said: "The education given in this college does far more than enable one to make a living. It means making a life."

FRANK B. NOYES, Treasurer of Evening Star, says: "The bone and sinew of the business life of Washington are largely made up of those who have been trained in Spencerian Business College."
